French furniture and lifestyle brand Ligne Roset (<https://www.ligne-roset.com/us/>) recently partnered with textile brand Sunbrella (<https://www.sunbrella.com/>) on an outdoor seating collection designed by Noé Duchaufour-Lawrance (<http://noeduchaufourlawrance.com/>). Inspired by the traditional Moroccan footstool, the original Ottoman collection (<https://www.ligne-roset.com/us/modele/living/sofas/ottoman/1700>) was for indoor use and now through a new partnership with Sunbrella, they've reimaged it for outdoor use.

The Ottoman Outdoor collection (<https://www.ligne-roset.com/us/modele/outdoor/armchairs/ottoman/2515>) comes in new options of Sunbrella fabrics, which are breathable, UV/fade resistant, stain resistant, mold/mildew resistant, and can be cleaned with bleach. The pieces are even outfitted with a hidden drain where the backrest and the seat connect so water doesn't pool up.

The collaboration recently launched at WantedDesign during NYCxDESIGN 2018 through a nature-inspired presentation of winding gardens and brickwork.
